Discover your passion for science communication with HKU Science! Join our Science Communication Video Contest, where you can compete for the exciting opportunity to co-host ‘Q&A with Currio’, our fun science programme on our YouTube Channel with our mascot. Together, let’s promote science literacy and become the next generation of science communicators.

Eligibility
The contest is open to the following groups:
- HKU full-time students
- Hong Kong secondary school students

Five Steps to be a YouTuber with HKU Science

1. Pick a science topic that interests you and explain the science behind in layman and in a fun and engaging way.

2. Curate a 5-minute script in either English or Chinese that facilitates you introducing the topic with our VTuber Currio.

3. Enrol in the competition and submit your script along with a 30-second voice recording in MP3 format, explaining why you chose the topic.

4. Take part in our video-shooting selected entrants will be invited to take a video of your presentation with our VTuber Currio at the Faculty’s multimedia studio.

5. Become our YouTuber. Selected contesting videos will be showcased at Faculty’s social media platforms for round 2 competition and winners might be invited to be the YouTubers of the Faculty.
